

Cities Favor Election of State PSC

HOPE, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus expressed alarm Tuesday at blanket condemnation of public officials.

Addressing the Arkansas Municipal League, Faubus said criticism of those who are wayward or wrong is just but it is unfair to take isolated incidents and paint them as the general picture. This practice, the governor said, has affected the faith of the people in their government.

Faubus addressed a luncheon meeting. The two-day convention ended with a banquet Tuesday night.

Mayor Roy Row of Batesville was elected as the organization's new president, succeeding Hugh Bremer of Fort Smith. Mayor Clyde Andrews of Marianna, Mayor Guy Brown of Fayetteville and Mayor Werner C. Knoop of Little Rock were chosen as district vice presidents.

The league called by resolution for election of members of the Arkansas Commerce Commission. Commissioners now are appointed by the governor.

The resolution called for an initiative act, setting up election procedures, to be submitted to voters in the 1962 general election.

Several speakers said the resolution should not be taken as criticism of present commissioners. The league has an interest in the commission, it was said, because most utility customers live in cities.

The resolution was presented to the resolutions committee by the delegations from Pine Bluff and El Dorado, two cities which have been contesting an Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. rate increase which the PSC approved.

Vote on adoption of the resolution was 25 to 14 after a move to refer to the Executive Committee — and thus delay possible action until a year hence — had been abandoned.

German Joe Templeton of El Dorado, one of the backers of the resolution, said that nearby states elect their commissioners.

"This is not a personal thing with Mr. Faubus," he said. "I just believe that these commissioners should be elected by the people."

Approximately 33,750 signatures would be necessary to initiate the proposed measure.

Present PSC members are Chairman Lewis Robinson of Pine Bluff and Commissioners J. M. Malone Sr. of Lonoke and John R. Thompson of Little Rock.

Assistant at Hospital Quits

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Haydon Donahue resigned Tuesday as assistant superintendent at the Arkansas State Hospital to become superintendent of Central State Hospital at Norman, Okla.

Donahue's resignation followed that of Supt. Granville Jones who is going to New Jersey.

Dr. George W. Jackson of Topeka, Kan., is scheduled to succeed Jones about Dec. 1.

Donahue said his resignation was not prompted by Jackson's coming but because he wants to manage his own hospital. He said he and Jackson are friends and Jackson made him an attractive offer to keep him at Little Rock.

Donahue came to Arkansas in 1959 from Oklahoma where he was associated with the state hospital system.

Jones' resignation followed an announcement by the board of trustees that he would be demoted to assistant superintendent because of his health.

Picks Donham as Revenue Commissioner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ted Donham, 60, of Benton, a veteran former U.S. Internal Revenue Service employee and onetime 15th District chancellor, was appointed today as state revenue commissioner by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Donham succeeds J. Orville Cheney who resigned as commissioner Nov. 1 to join the state Commerce Commission.

Cheney had served since 1955. Donham is the second revenue commissioner appointed since Faubus became governor.

Faubus said Donham was chosen because of his experience in tax matters.

Donham, who has practiced law at Benton the past five years, said he would discontinue his practice while revenue commissioner.

He is a World War I Navy vet and had been with the IRS from 1935 to 1957.

Donham is a native of Benton, but has lived for much of his life in Little Rock.

Donham's appointment as chancellor also was made by Faubus, who chose him to fill out an unexpired term after the late Chancellor F. D. Goza of Malvern died. Donham was not eligible to seek an elective term in this job.

El E. McLees, the chief assistant commissioner, has been acting commissioner since Nov. 1.

Victory, Tractor, Henry Rowe and Jimmy Rowe; Cooperative; Joe England; Personality Improvement; Melba Evans; Poultry; Charles McCorkle and Carolyn McKee; County Champion Clubs; Shover Springs and DeAnn County Champion Boy; Jimmy Carver and the County Champion Girl; Elizabeth Smith.

Special guests included Dean Atkins who presented the council with a $50 check from Southwest Arkansas Power and Light. Other sponsors of 4-H present were Mrs. Lester Kehl, representing Hempstead County 110 Council, and Warren Butler, president of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau.

Norm Bradford, KXAT; Dean Wallace, Extension Forest Products Marketing specialist and Mrs. Joy Case, Extension Secretary, were also guests.

The Arkansas Supreme Court was asked Tuesday to rule whether the state Revenue Department can collect a sales tax on juke box revenues.

Poinsett Chancellor Gene E. Bradley of Blytheville ruled in a suit filed by C. E. Tolliver of Trumann, a juke box operator, that such a tax could not be collected because coin machines are not mentioned in the sales tax law.

The Revenue Department appealed the suit which involves $2,700 in taxes. However, Revenue Department attorney Lyle Williams said the legal structure of the sales tax law is at stake.

A Supreme Court ruling in Tolliver's favor, Williams said, would open the door to other attacks on the sales tax law.

The Revenue Department said it had been taxing juke box revenues since 1937.

Bradley said a section of the tax law concerning taxes on entertainment and amusement cannot be construed to cover juke boxes.

U. S. Scientist, Wife to Stay Behind Curtain

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The wife of University of Washington scientist Charles O. Jung said in Prague today "my husband and I would like to stay in Czechoslovakia for the rest of our lives."

Dr. Josephine Jung, reached in the Czechoslovak capital by telephone from Vienna, said she and her husband had written their families and the University of Washington "explaining why we want to live in this country."

Asked what their motives were for wanting to live in a Communist country, she said: "I don't have to answer this. It is all explained in the letters."

Jung is a fisheries scientist. His wife is a fisheries pathologist. University of Washington authorities said Jung was working on fish population studies in the Pacific and several other research projects, none of them confidential or secret.

Mrs. Jung was reached at Prague's plush Hotel International, a place where prominent official guests of the Czechoslovak government usually are quartered.

Mrs. Jung declined to answer questions whether her husband would take a job in Czechoslovakia and what they planned to do about their American citizenship.

She said her husband was not available to answer telephone calls.

New Storm Is Developing in Central Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New Mexico began digging out of a big snow drift which seemed to cover the whole state today as the storm moved into central Texas.

But the Weather Bureau warned that another storm is approaching New Mexico from the northwest and is likely to cause further snow in northern mountain sections Thursday.

The storm, which started Monday, was responsible for the death of one man in New Mexico and five in Texas. It was the worst in 30 years at El Paso. In some mountain areas the snow was 30 inches deep with drifts of five to six feet.

All of the New Mexico stations reported freezing temperatures with Alamogordo being the warmest with 30 degrees.

Brucker Says Military Is Muzzled

DETROIT AP)—Former Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, commenting on a No. 8 air crash at Richmond, Va., in which 74 recruits died, charged that the U.S. military has become muzzled beyond common sense or traditional limits.

His first commentary on the national military policy since leaving office last January, was given the Detroit chapter of the Military Order of the World Wars Tuesday.

"These were our own sons. We were responsible for their safekeeping. They were already in the Army, soldiers for one day. Yet they were transported aboard a rattlesnake plane, handled as indifferently as one might ship cordwood," he said.

Brucker said he has "waited and listened—from the Pentagon, no one has spoken to say why it happened and where the blame

"Is it because we have so muffled the military voice that it fears to speak, even when the truth clamors to be heard? I say shame on us that we seem to care so little," he said.

P. B. Board Refuses to Tell Policy

PINE BLUFF, Ark. AP)—The Pine Bluff School Board rejected Tuesday a demand by Negroes that it state its desegregation policies.

"The board is not in position at this time to announce any firm, final plans for desegregation," the board said in a statement read to 26 Negro leaders at a special meeting.

The statement noted that the board has been tied up recently promoting a $2,750,000 school construction bond issue proposal which will be voted on Dec. 5.

W. N. Phillips, chairman of the Education Committee of Pine Bluff's National Association for the Advancement of Colored People branch, said he did not know what steps his organization would take next.

Phillips forced the board to hold Tuesday's special meeting by filing petitions signed by Negro school patrons.

Phillips asked the board to set a timetable for start of desegregation and achievement of complete desegregation. He also asked if faculties and administrative staffs would be desegregated on the same timetable as classes.

The board indicated it has abandoned a plan of gradual de-

Mom, Daughter Are Doing Fine

LITTLE ROCK AP)—Mrs. A. C. Traffanstedt, 39, of Little Rock, became a mother again, and, not long afterward, a grandmother.

Mrs. Traffanstedt gave birth to a daughter at a Little Rock hospital Friday night. The next night her older daughter, Mrs. Robert Morrow, 17, of Little Rock, gave birth to a son at the same hospital.

It was the third child—she also has a son—and first grandchild for Mrs. Traffanstedt. All the principals were reported doing fine.

segregation first announced in 1956. The plan, scheduled to start in 1958, was postponed after the 1957 integration crisis in Little Rock. It called for grade-a-year desegregation, starting in the first grade.

The board said the plan had been nullified by state laws passed since its inception. There was no explanation of this contention. State pupil assignment laws were passed since the plan was announced.

Wiley Branton, a Negro attorney, urged the board to answer Phillips' questions. He said he would hate to see the board free Negroes to seek their answers in court.

Branton said he was speaking as a private citizen and not as an NAACP member or as a lawyer

Sentence Stay Is Granted

LITTLE ROCK AP)—Mrs. Bonnie Connally of Hot Springs got a 15-day stay of her three-year manslaughter sentence Tuesday from Gov. Orval E. Faubus who was told Mrs. Connally's mother was ill and needed attention. Mrs. Connally, convicted in the fatal shooting of her estranged husband, Joseph Connally, at Hot Springs now will enter prison on Nov. 30 unless another stay is granted.

Seeks to Sell Telephone Stock

LITTLE ROCK AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission was asked by Southwestern State Telephone Co., Tuesday for authority to sell $3.5 million in bonds to help finance the utility's $9,390,000 four-state construction program for 1962. The firm said $1,240,000 would be spent improving its exchanges in 26 Arkansas cities.

Special Vote

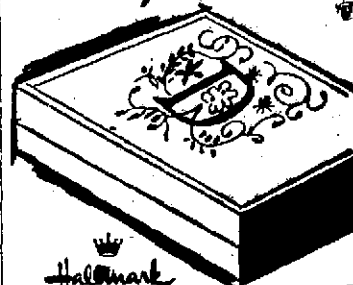

SILOAM SPRINGS, Ark. AP)—A special election is set here Nov. 28 on a $350,000 bond issue to finance construction of a factory for the Franklin Electric Co., of Bluffton, Ind.

Half-Century Gap in Play for President

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second time—in a span of 57 years—the charm of Pablo Casals' cello echoed in the White House.

For the 84-year-old, world-renowned musician, it was another of many triumphs.

Leaders of the music world, invited to hear him, viewed the performance as a triumph, too, for President Kennedy who had made the rare performance possible.

The emphasis was on music and a salute to the arts as Casals performed in the glittering East

THE STORY: Hilary Reverton, a precocious child left in charge of Margaret Russell, suddenly takes interest in the belongings of the absentee landlady, Mrs. Foale, in whose home they are living.

Chapter III

Margaret shot down the hall and into the living room, towel clutched about her shoulders; she called loudly, "Is that you, doctor?" even before she glanced through the window over the still brocade settee. The man had retreated instantly; he was standing at the edge of the porch, admiring the snow-capped mountains in the distance and lighting a cigarette. It seemed hard to believe that only seconds before he had been trying to enter the house, thinking it empty.

With fear turned into anger, Margaret snatched the door open. She said icily to the face that turned, "I'm expecting the doctor."

Ballroom after a formal state dinner honoring Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico.

"I thought it was marvelous. I was deeply moved by the entire occasion—not simply by the music of Casals but by the company in which it was played," said composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein.

Bernstein, conductors Leopold Stokowski and Eugene Ormandy and composers Gian Carlo Menotti and Aaron Copland were among the many representatives of the music world included among the 153 distinguished guests the Kennedys invited to the dinner.

Introducing Casals, President Kennedy cited the Spanish-born cellist as a man who has demonstrated in his own life that "an artist must be a free man."

Casals in a moral protest against the dictatorship of Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain, has refused to play in public in any country which recognizes the Franco government. He has made himself an exile from the land of his birth.

Although the United States recognizes Franco, Casals accepted Kennedy's invitation to play a return engagement at the White House where he last performed in 1904 during Theodore Roosevelt's administration.

Roosevelt's daughter, Alice Longworth, who was present at the 1904 concert, attended Monday night.

Casals is a close friend of Governor Munoz Marin and now lives in Puerto Rico.

here, any minute. Was there something . . . ?

Light eyes, neither blue nor gray; strong-boned face with something disarming about it, an air of usually getting what he wanted. "Mrs. Foale?"

"Mrs. Foale is abroad and has rented this house," said Margaret. Her wet head felt eased in ice by the incoming air.

"Abroad?" Not a brogue, Margaret thought, unconsciously cataloging things in the order of their importance, but there was one not far behind. "You wouldn't have her address, by any chance?"

"I'm afraid not."

"Wait a minute," said the man, quite closing the door behind him, carefully not frightening her. "You don't remember me?"

"I'm afraid not," said Margaret again, distantly, but she wasn't frightened.

"Jerome Kincaid," he said expectantly. "And you're—wait, don't tell me—you lived in Connecticut, in Fairfield . . . you used to arrive at Rumford Elementary School in an old green car . . . your father was an etcher . . . Russell, Margery Russell."

"Margaret," she corrected, and had a sudden dizzying clear remembrance of the school playground, green, shady, with swings and slides.

"And Miss Hatch," he said, intercepting her. "I was back in Fairfield last year and she's still principal and still going strong. You had a sister in my class—Cornelia, was it? Blonde. Is she out here with you?"

Margaret said yes, guardedly. Childhood held so many half-memories—a particular pair of mittens, a set of long eyelashes above freckled cheeks, a boy who defended your turn on the slide. Imagination could easily creep in. This man had turned the door-knob, had planned on entering the house unobserved.

Margaret said, lashes down, "Rumford . . . for heaven's sake, do you remember Willy Burnett?"

He tilted his head frowningly. "Somebody at school?"

"Yes. Oh, you must remember—somebody threw a snowball with a stone in it and he lost the sight of one eye, just before the Christmas vacation."

She was deliberately omitting it for him, inviting him to step into a trap, because there had been no Willy Burnett. Kincaid considered it, appearing to try to recollect, and shook his head. "No—but I do remember Eleanor Something, a friend of Cornelia's doing a back flip at the beach one summer and cutting her head open on the diving board. Eleanor was fine, and Cornelia passed out cold on the float."

How well she remembered that. Cornelia coming groggily out of her faint on the warm, sally white-painted float, Margaret swimming back to shore with her, side-stroke, so that she would have her face out of the water and one arm free in case of trouble.

She felt a tremendous case. She forgot that she sat there, towel cloaking her shoulders, hair drying wispily as a child's, until the clock chimed warningly.

She turned distractedly. "Oh dear, Hilary's out of the movies."

"Hilary's not yours, I take it?"

"No, nor Cornelia's. She and Philip were taking care of her for friends when Cornelia got sick—I'll have to rush."

"Couldn't I pick her up for you? My car's outside."

"The very last thing I told her was about strange men, but if you'd be kind enough to give me a lift down to the theater—"

Belatedly, Margaret remembered her towel and her hair. She rushed into the bedroom, used a lipstick, hastily, put on a heavy chiffon scarf and her lemon wool coat, caught up her pocketbook, and came rushing back.

Kincaid said, smiling at her as he held the door, "How old is this Hilary?"

"A terrible eight."

"Parents?"

"Reconciling in Mexico City."

"Oh."

They spoke with a comfortable elision that Margaret could not remember with anyone outside her own family.

Rebel Leaders Under Guard

PARIS (AP)—Mohammed Ben Bella, vice premier of the Algerian rebel regime, and two associates were placed in a Paris hospital under heavy guard today after the government forcibly removed them from a prison where they launched a protest last 12 days ago.

A doctor reported Sunday that the three were in poor health as a result of their hunger strike. But today French authorities said there was no cause for alarm over the trio's condition.

Strategy of Victory Vital Says Nixon

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—This country needs a strategy of victory to counter Nikita Khrushchev's strategy of demand, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said at a $100-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner Monday night.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower wasn't at the Cow Palace—where the 1956 Republican ticket was born—but he sent a message.

"This is the time to lay aside divisive talk about 1964," he said, "and to concentrate upon the challenge of 1962."

Nixon's advice was beamed at President Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, Fresh flowers give a lift to the spirits in fall and winter. Try some of these touches to perk up your wardrobe. A wreath of ivy and sweetheart roses (left) makes a shallow crown for evening wear. A plain wool dress takes on new life (center) when you tuck a pouffe of carnations into the belt. If you know you're being sent flowers for evening wear (right), be specific about what you're wearing. This way, you'll avoid clashing colors.

DOROTHY DIX

Single Though Married

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am a married woman living the life of a single whose job he hoped to capture next year.

Nixon spoke out against "a psychology of fear almost approaching hysteria" which he said is building up in America in the wake of the 50-megaton bomb, the dangers of fallout and crises such as Berlin.

"There is too much talk of the fear of war and not enough talk of the hope for peace," he said. "There is too much talk of our weaknesses and of the strength of the Communist bloc."

"And there is far too much talk about compromising, which would be defeat, and not enough about victory."

Nixon moves on to similar $100-a-plate GOP dinners in Indianapolis tonight and Portland, Ore., Wednesday night. An announced 2,500 tickets were sold for the San Francisco affair—Northern California kickoff for the 1962 state election campaign.

girl. When baby came last year, we used to take him to bed to stop his whimpering. That went on for a couple of weeks then my husband complained he wasn't getting enough sleep to do a day's work. So I moved into the guest room with the baby.

A year and a half later, my husband still sleeps alone in our room and baby and I in the guest room. All the love I get is from my baby, yet my husband wonders what's wrong! Baby is a lamb now. Once I get him to sleep, I'd like to lie and talk with my husband but he never has time.

It's either too late, or he's too tired or sleepy. It's the same in the morning. I never go any place, no one ever comes to see me. That's the way he wants it. I'm thinking of divorce. We both take this newspaper and read your column. Is there anything you can say that might open his eyes? —A reader

Dear Helen: The end of marriage used to be, not companionship, but children. Modern marriage puts the emphasis on life—a union of body, heart and soul. Remind your husband of his marriage vow: "With my body I do worship." Turn the guest room into a nursery and move back where you belong—with your husband.

Dear Helen: I am in love with our newsboy. He's 13. I shall soon be 14. Every time I hear the newspaper hit our front steps the flings it from his bike, my heart jumps. But by the time I open the door he's gone.

Would it be wrong to bake a cake and put it out with a card saying, "For the best newsboy in town"? He hasn't the best reputation around here but maybe it's because folks haven't got a kind word for him. Each night I spend two hours saying the blessed lullaby and praying he will change. Do you think my prayers will be answered? —Hoping

Dear Helen: If you have faith, your prayers will be answered in a way that is best for you. There is nothing wrong in baking the newsboy a cake but it would be in better taste if you and your family fixed him a Thanksgiving basket instead. Attach a holiday card to which all you included—sign your names

Dear Helen: We have rented a cottage for an out-of-season vacation. Already, my husband's associates are inviting themselves down for a good time. Relatives, friends and other friends are doing the same. As a result, it will be a vacation for them, not me. I shall have the meals to cook plus keep them in liquor for some drink quite a bit. I have small children. Is there any polite way of asking the drops to help out or should I smile and say nothing? —Overworked

Dear Overworked: Self-invited guests are inconsiderate and thoughtless. Put those who come to work and, if supplies run short, send them on a shopping expedition. Explain that you're trying to get a vacation yourself. If given the opportunity most people prove surprisingly kind.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Address her care of this newspaper and be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Marital Harmony."

A clever kitchen corsage was presented to Miss Hehner, who planned it to the shoulder of her yellow frock. The gaily wrapped packages were placed under an umbrella of yellow and white.

The guest of honor received many lovely and useful gifts.

The serving table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white mums. Cake and sherbert were served to about 50 guests. Games were played and pictures were made.

Morale Is Good

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—The high morale of reservists called to active duty shows that Americans are determined to defend freedom for a good time. Relatives, friends and other friends are doing the same.

Gen. Herbert B. Powell made the statement at a news conference Monday after an inspection of this base, manned almost entirely by reserve units.

Vigil Begins Over Mr. Sam

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)—Alarmed members of Sam Rayburn's family began a vigil Tuesday night at the hospital where the speaker of the House is losing strength to the ravages of cancer.

Dr. Joe A. Risser said Rayburn, 79, was severely weakened Tuesday morning and lost even more strength by late afternoon.

Rayburn's condition is critical, Dr. Risser said last Saturday night his patient had only "hours to days" to live.

The speaker's sisters and brother—Mrs. W. A. Thomas of Dallas and Mrs. S. E. Bartley and Richard Rayburn of Bonham—visited the hospital Tuesday. They returned hurriedly—about the time Risser issued his 4:30 p.m. bulletin.

"The speaker has grown weaker what weaker since the last bulletin. Condition critical," Dr. Risser said.

The three took time out for dinner, then the sisters came back to the hospital and stayed. Richard Rayburn returned for a brief period.

Damages Against Officer Refused

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A jury refused Tuesday to award damages to Bill Bookout, former Clay County sheriff, in a $12,000 suit against State Trooper Victor Hanshaw.

Bookout contended he was assaulted by Hanshaw after Bookout was allegedly stopped for speeding at the junction of state highways 90 and 1 last March 10.

Hanshaw, who was then stationed at Piggott but who now works out of Brinkley, said Bookout started an argument and he used only what force was necessary to get Bookout out of his car.

The jury returned a 10-2 verdict in favor of Hanshaw.

Train-Truck Wreck Fatal

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—O'Neal Dean, 30, a farmer at near Peach Orchard, was killed Tuesday when his car and a Missouri Pacific freight train collided at O'Neal, about 12 miles north of here.

Police said Dean apparently failed to see the northbound train, which rammed his car broadside.

J. F. Smith of Little Rock, the freight engineer, told officers he did not see Dean's automobile in time to stop the train which was traveling about 45 miles an hour.

The car was demolished and wreckage was strewn for 200 yards.

Live Matter Rocket Is a Failure

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A four-stage rocket carrying living matter toward the earth's dangerous radiation belt failed today.

"Instrumentation indicates that the first-stage booster impacted on land about a half mile from the coastline," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"There was no damage to property that we can ascertain," he added.

The isolated area is mostly ranch land.

A Navy spokesman added: "We don't have the exact impact position. The rocket malfunctioned and veered off course; the flight objective was not achieved."

He said the capsule and upper three stages evidently went to sea and were lost.

The capsule was crammed with 11 living matter including fresh-drawn human blood.

The 33 pound package also included a device designed to capture and bring back to earth for the first time tiny bits of space dust known as micrometeoroids.

Plans called for the capsule, codenamed BIOS—for Biological Investigations of Space—to shoot 1,165 miles into space and then

Macapagal Winner in Philippines

By CARL ZIMMERMAN

MANILA (AP)—Vice President Diosdado Macapagal piled up an apparently insurmountable lead today in the Philippine presidential election and exultantly proclaimed, "We made it."

With more than 60 per cent of the estimated seven million votes counted, unofficial returns gave Macapagal 2,695,110 to 2,031,067 for President Carlos P. Garcia.

Macapagal told newsmen, "The lead is such that any attempt to alter the results will fail." But he said that he would not issue a victory statement until Garcia conceded "in accordance with the usual practice."

Garcia, studying returns at his parachute into the ocean 1,300 miles west of here.

U.S. space agency scientists expected the experiment to tell them how badly space radiation can damage living cells, and whether weightlessness has any effect on two basic life functions: eating and reproduction.

The 17 by 19 inch capsule, containing 38 small parcels, was carried on the nose of a 62-foot-tall, four-stage solid-propellant Argo DB rocket.

home on Bohol Island in the south central Philippines, said word he was not conceding yet. But it seemed all but impossible for him to overtake Macapagal's lead.

Macapagal needed to take only about 800,000 more votes to win a majority and his lead was still widening.

With about 32,000 of the country's 41,000 precincts reported, Macapagal had 57 per cent of the votes to Garcia's 43 per cent. The president's strongholds in the southern islands were generally giving him majorities but not nearly heavy enough to stem the rising steadily since the first returns.

Macapagal's running mate, Emmanuel Pelaez, held a smaller lead in the vice presidential race over Sergio Osmeña Jr.—1,796,020 to 1,609,030.

Garcia's running mate, Gil J. Puyat, lagged with 1,260,790.

Texas Hogs Picked for Victories

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market averages keep going up and up. The college football forecasting averages keep going down and down. Will the twain ever meet? Last week's selections averaged .733 (44 correct, 16 wrong). This week's picks:

Texas over Texas Christian; If it's TCU's turn to stage another of the many upsets that dot this venerable series but the 1961 Longhorns are not that complacent.

Alabama over Georgia Tech; Tech has vowed to defeat every team that whips the Engineers last year and that includes Alabama. It won't be a cakewalk but Alabama's defense is too rugged.

Ohio State over Oregon; Bob Ferguson will make the West Coast team wish it had declined the invitation to visit the Midwest.

Louisiana State over Mississippi State; Jerry Stovall and Wendell Harris lit with the best and will decide the issue.

Minnesota over Purdue; Sandy Stephens never fire that ball until he sees the white in the eyes of his receivers. Purdue already had engineered two upsets this season and that's enough for one year.

Mississippi over Tennessee; That defeat by LSU taught the Rebels you must play football to win in the SEC.

Pittsburgh over Southern California; Jim Traficant's passing will stifle the Trojans.

Colorado over Nebraska; The Buffaloes, with their eyes on the Orange Bowl, will make amends for their starting loss to Utah.

Michigan State over Northwestern; The Spartan offense, held to six points in the last two outings, gets back into high gear with George Saines.

Syracuse over Notre Dame; The Orangemen have made this game a crusade. Ernie Davis breaks loose with a bang.

Missouri over Kansas State; With the Orange Bowl designation still open, the Missourians will turn loose all their power.

UCLA over Washington; Washington has been the Coast Conference champs for two years. This year it will be UCLA.

Maryland over Wake Forest; Norman Sneed will be missed by the Deacons while Gary Collins will star for Maryland.

Arkansas over Southern Methodist; The Pockers have skidded but still are strong enough to handle the Mustangs.

El Dorado meets Little Rock Tall in a battle for second place in the Big Nine Conference Friday night, and Camden faces Smackover in the Region 4AA title game.

The Camden-Smackover bout lost some of its glow last week when Smackover to a 23-6 drubbing from Malvern. But the Bucks, with one loss in 4AA play, still can tie Camden for the title by handling the Panthers their first loss.

The El Dorado-Hall game is a tossup with two good offenses offsetting each other.

Another good one—but a game of little consequence—is the Blytheville-Little Rock Central fight for fifth place in the Big Nine. The Chicks have their best chance in years of beating the Tigers.

Van Buren and Fayetteville are favored to heat secondary foes Friday night and clinch a three-way tie with Springdale for the Region 1AA title.

Benton should sew up the 3AA crown in a game with Morrilton. Jonesboro can clinch at least a tie for the 2AA title with a victory over Wynne.

After a 12-3-1 record last week and a .763 season average, here's a look at this Friday's action:

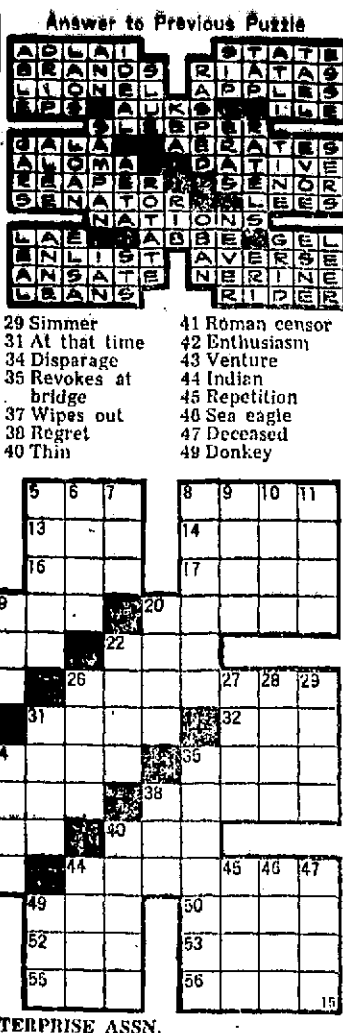

HALL 20, El Dorado 14. Hall has a bit more depth and Coach Ray Peters will have his hands ready for Jerry Mooley's slants.

CENTRAL 7, Blytheville 6. A brilliant defensive game that will hinge on one break.

PINE BLUFF 27, Hot Springs 7. The Trojans will put everything they have left into this one, but Pine Bluff is getting ready for a banner year in 1962.

Miracle, Says Blanc of His Recovery

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I know it is a miracle that I am still alive. That's why I thank God every day for His help."

A serious Mel Blanc—"man of a thousand voices"—was talking about the car crash that by all rights should have taken his life. His car was struck head-on by another car on Sunset Boulevard last January.

One of the firemen who cut Mel out of the wreckage said later: "We should have just put him in a sack."

Nearing recovery at his Pacific Palisades home, Mel said, "When I asked my doctor what bones I had broken, he told me: 'If someone tells you he broke a bone, you can say you broke the same one—unless it's a left arm.'"

Blanc pointed to his right leg, still in a plaster cast: "This is the one that's slow to heal—21 breaks from the knee to the foot. One of them was compound, and that's what slowed me down."

"The knee cap was torn off my left leg, but somehow it was sewn back on. The other breaks included most of my ribs, six vertebrae, both sides of the pelvis and three skull fractures."

Mel remembers nothing from the time he saw the oncoming car until he regained consciousness 21 days later. What did he think about first?

"My voice," he said. "I realized my mouth and throat were undamaged and I could talk. I thanked God for that."

Mel's voice is his fortune; without it he would have been lost.

His son rigged up a recording studio so Mel could make scratch tracks—preliminary recordings to aid animators—for the two cartoon shows he does on TV. He is the voice of Bugs Bunny and plays Barney Rubble on "The Flintstones."

Now he is able to get around in a wheelchair and has made some recordings in the studios.

several other Southern cities.

Hardy's appointment was announced Monday. He will begin work Jan. 1.

He replaces Nelson Evans, who is leaving Arkansas to take a hospital administrative job in Beirut, Lebanon.

Matter of Fact

The lemming, a mouse-like animal of Scandinavia, has the same troubles as the "woman who lived in a shoe." Lemmings have so many youngsters they "don't know what to do." Every few years lemming colonies get overpopulated. Starvation forces the little animals to leave home. Nothing stops their desperate march, not even the ocean. They jump right in, to their death—victims of their own "population explosion."

Women Will Bare Another Spot

By SUE REILLY

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—The American woman is going bare in yet another spot.

Styles shown at the 11th annual press week of California fashion designers left little doubt about that Monday.

Most of the tight-fitting, bulge-revealing Capri pants now known as St. Tropez pants, stretch pants, hip skimmers, jodhpurs and Southhamptons, are about an inch below the navel and three inches

Next week he'll make his grand return to Jack Benny's show, tapping the Christmas Eve telecast.

"Jack has been just wonderful," Mel remarked. "He has been out to see me at least every 10 days."

"Everybody has been wonderful, in fact. On the night I was hurt, 18 of my son's fraternity brothers at UCLA came to the hospital to offer blood."

"I have received 15,000 cards and letters, mostly from people I don't even know. They offered me their prayers, and they were Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Mohammedan and even Buddhist. I am sure their prayers helped."

Kroll to Tell His Version

MOSCOW (AP)—West German Ambassador Hans Kroll is returning to Bonn today to tell Chancellor Konrad Adenauer his side of the story of how reports were started that the Soviet Union put forth new proposals for solving the German and Berlin questions.

Reports coming from Bonn imply that Kroll may have initiated these proposals as his own. But according to the best available information here they came first from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and then were discussed by Kroll and Premier Khrushchev at a conference initiated by the latter.

It also remained possible that Kroll advanced some of his own ideas during the talks with Khrushchev. The two have been known to talk frankly and at times with considerable heat.

The Soviet news agency correspondent in Bonn reported that diplomatic and press observers there "believe that Kroll would hardly return to his post in Moscow."

Asks Disarmament

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India called for immediate and general disarmament Monday night, warning that each year of delay will make a solution more difficult.

Speaking at the Beverly Hilton Hotel on the eve of his departure from the United States, Nehru said he is hopeful disarmament can be accomplished now.

Earlier Nehru said "war is unlikely in the foreseeable future." He said internal conditions in the Soviet Union are not conducive to war fever.

Red Is Expelled

CALTANISSETTA, Sicily (AP)—Town councilmen Giuseppe Picone and Biagio Amico of nearby San Cataldo have been expelled from the Italian Communist party.

Party officials found them guilty of "treason and unworthiness" because they did not vote for the party in recent local elections.

For 1962...an all-new kind of Ford!

the car that's just right for just about everybody

You've never seen anything like it, because there's never been anything like it... until today. On the outside the new Ford Fairlane 500 measures a quick 197 inches from stem to stern. A good lot shorter than the cars from which it borrowed its name, it calls the suggest parking places home. At the same time, on the inside the new Fairlane 500 is every inch as big as some of the biggest Fords ever built.

The new Fairlane 500 is priced way under previous Fairlanes, well under many comparis. But Fairlane economy doesn't stop with a pretty price tag. It runs to amazing gas savings—with the world's first economy V-8 or the nickel-nursing Fairlane Six. Routine service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, only twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest. And it adjusts its own brakes.

RIGHT! Big car room, ride, performance.
RIGHT! Compact car price, economy, handling.
RIGHT! Only car anywhere near its price with the two-year maintenance schedule first introduced by Galaxie.
RIGHT! Unique economy choice, the world's first economy V-8 or the delightfully thrifty Fairlane Six.

RIGHT! Fine car upholstery, appointments, luxuries.
RIGHT! The built-in value that pays off in pleasure now—and in profit when it comes time to trade.
RIGHT! Quality and precision craftsmanship you've never before enjoyed in any car anywhere near its low price.
